Landmarks Should be Kept by Cities, Says Allen True;

Rotarians will have one more luncheon before the Christmas holidays and then the weekly luncheons will wait until the new year starts, the next luncheon after next Thursday at the Rotary luncheon held Thursday at the Rotary luncheon held Thursday at the Hotel Paso del Norte, Rer. Miles Hanson pastor of the First Congregational church, was the speaker for the day. He spoke upon spiritual values in man's every day life versus material values. Allen T. True, the artist and a native of El Paso, was the second appeaker and briefly set forth some of the factors that make for personality in a city.

Glory Of Farce.

in a city.

Glory Of Force.

"Everywhere nowadays" said Dr. Hanson, "we hear the giorifying of the material forces. When S. S. McClure was in El Paso and spoke before the Equal Franchise league, he said that there is only one thing in the world that counts and that is physical force and anybody that says the opposite is a little bit wrong.

"I had spoken, just before he came in upon toe value and need of spiritual

I had spoken, just before he came in upon for value and need of spiritual forces. But what the editor said is, and has, taken a strong hold upon America. We glorify the provess of the arms in the European war and overlook the fact that the little nations have been the sufferers. Here we have the thought: only the physical things the thought: only the physical things count.

Thought Is Power.

Thought Is Power,

"There is another side on that queetion. Three or four thousand years ago India was torn with war but the Brahmins did not fight. They thought and said: 'When the war is done, then the world will accept our thoughts' And the world will accept our thoughts' And the world did. There is a power in life, an inner power, that tells far more than the physical. What really counts and tells is what we think and what our attitude is to that power. America is trying to build a big America but it is what America thinks that will count in the summary, not the physical in the summary, not the physical things that she accomplishes.

"What Is Bigness?"

"We want prosperity and physical happiness but big industries and hig buildings are not everything. Big armies do not make a great nation or a great people. When we hear so much talk about bigness? The greatest religious leader came out of one of the smallest nations, the greatest paintings and works of art the greatest achievements in literature have been created in small lands. Littleness is not to be mea-ured in national terms by a physical standin national terms by a physical stand-ard. It is what a man feels and be-lieves and hopes inside that counts—it is the same with a nation."

Western Cities Preserve Relies. Western Cities Preserve Relies.

Mr. True expressed a regret that instead of the cities of the west preserving their relics of pioneer days, they destroyed them ruthtessly. These are the things that make for the personality of a city," he said, "and a city is affected just as profoundly by what made it in the past as in the present. Neither El Paso, nor any other western city, should scarifice the buildings and landmarks that are factors in its personality." Mr. True also said that be had little patience with purely esthetic movements and that he was interested in painting the west in a
